

Oil & Gas Business Accounting

Simplifying financial administration for inherently messy environments.

Players in the oil and gas industry face complex tax issues in addition to the financial administration work of running a large operation. While you focus on extracting the most from your resources, HK will help grow profits while reducing your tax liability.

Since 1941, we have served producers (both large and independent), operators, property owners and investors alike with successful financial strategies and business advisory services. From Marcellus, Utica, Point Pleasant and other shale formations, to structuring complex business deals and strategies, you can rely on Hall, Kistler's oil and gas team for complete business advisory, accounting, audit support and tax alternatives.

Accounting Leadership for Oil & Gas Businesses

Utilizing deep knowledge of the oil and gas industry to provide comprehensive advice, the HK team has supported clients in all sectors of the industry, including drilling, refining, distribution and more. We've worked with every accounting method—from archaic to modern and rare to common. Our team is ready and able to assist no matter your current circumstances and systems and can help identify that which works best for your organization.

We lend our oil and gas industry expertise in close partnerships with banks, attorneys, other CPAs and advisors to help them and their clients make the most of investments, properties and companies.
