

Forensic Accounting Services

Protecting businesses from fraud and theft before it happens.

When your business is facing a financial crime or dispute, the advisors at Hall, Kistler can help you uncover the truth in your numbers. Using a team-based approach, we provide expertise to help protect businesses from fraud and internal theft and to obtain the knowledge to deal with financial disputes successfully. Our forensic accounting team has many years of experience meeting the strict standards required by courts of law.

Deterring fraud is also a continuous process. Whoever your organization serves and whatever its goals, your first line of defense is a carefully designed and implemented internal control system. We've helped business owners, attorneys, financial planners and individuals alike protect themselves from fraud and theft, as well as settle challenging financial disputes, with forensic accounting. It starts with reviewing your tax and business records to identify irregularities that could be the source of financial distress.
